fax:

In Overstreet v. TRW Commercial Steering Division, 256 S.W.3d 626 (Tenn. 2008), the Tennessee Supreme Court analyzed issues involving the ability of an employer to independently interview an employee's treating physician in a workers' compensation case. The Court held that an employer may not conduct an ex parte interview of an employee's physician. This decision raises additional questions as to how far beyond the employer this holding could extend. Read Full Article
